The Awards issue It is rocket science

Karime Ramos Naranjo
Staff Writer

“It took one month to do the entire project,” said Ulysses Leon. Alex Sanchez and Ulysses, both sophomores, who worked together and entered their project in the annual CJUSD Science Fair that took place on Feb. 4.

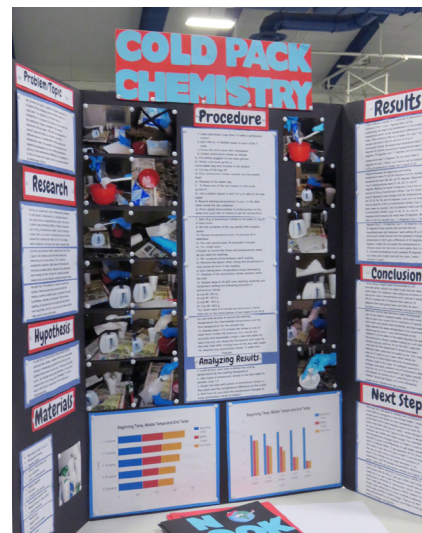

The science fair was hosted by BHS in the gym with over 100 exhibits that were displayed from all 28 schools in the district. Awards and medals were given out Feb. 6.

Alex and Ulysses’s project was titled, “The Effect of the Ratio of the Potassium Nitrate to Sucrose in Creating a Rocket” and built their rocket with materials that added up to only $5. “We saw a video of someone making a rocket out of potassium nitrate, and the science fair just happened to be right around the corner,” said Alex.

They were the Overall Sweepstakes Winner which means the project placed first in the district and they got to advance to SIMS, along with 35 others exhibits. SIMS is the Inland Science and Engineering Fair and was held on April 6. Along with taking first place, Alex and Ulysses also received a $50 gift card to Barnes & Noble.

Ulysses entered because he wanted to see if he could do better than his peers. “I learned that if I put my mind to something challenging I can overcome it...even though I don’t necessarily like group work,” laughed Ulysses.

Other winners included: Samuel Rivera, Andrew Lopez and Mauricio Munoz who will also advance to SIMS. Their project was titled, “Ordinary Substances Against Fire.” Andrew said about their group project, “We took second place. Our project was about various kitchen products and which ones put out fire the best. Baking soda works best for a grease fire. We studied baking soda, sugar, water and flour.”

Youth leadership winner wants to go into politics

Oh my gosh. Everyone who went, absolutely loved it," smiled counselor Mrs. Heather Butterworth. The Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Foundation (HOBY), allows a student provided by their school to attend a three day seminar at Chapman University in Orange, California.

"Honestly, I knew I had a fair shot of getting in but I didn't think I would actually win," said winner Ulysses Leon. He took two hours to write his winning submission. "None of the clubs or sports here seem interesting to me and this caught my attention so I thought I would give it a shot and enter."

HOBY's goal is to inspire and develop our global community of youth to a life dedicated to leadership, service, and innovation. Oral and/or written communication skills, creative problem solving, and sensitivity to the needs or concerns of others are only some qualities needed to get into the program.

The Colton Woman's Club, who organized all of it, ask for recommendations of students from teachers who they see as a potential leaders.

"Not many students submitted essays this time around," said Mrs. Butterworth. In order to enter, students must write an essay that answers the questions that are given. From there, the Woman's Club narrows it down to the top 10-15 students with the highest GPA, read the essays, and choose the student who they think will most benefit from the experience.

Ulysses wants to become a politician in the future. "I want to be able to help people later on life and I see politics as the best way to do that."

Students who get in the program get the chance to get a taste of the, "College experience." They stay in dorms on campus with roommates from different schools. The program consists of unique leadership training, service learning, and motivation building experiences that will take place from 7AM-11PM for the three days that they are there.

"I'm not scared to go by myself, I know it'll be a good experience."

Meet and greet: Ulysses Leon receives a plaque from the mayor of Colton Richard DeLaRosa at his official acceptance of the HOBY award at the Colton's Women Club on Feb. 14.

Two years in a row Cesar Chavez winner

Our language is the reflection of ourselves. A language is an exact reflection of the character and growth of its speakers," said Cesar Chavez once. That quote was also the theme for those who entered the annual Cesar Chavez Art & Writing Contest.

Winner for the art portion, Jocelyn Paz, and winner for the writing portion, Althea Bigay, took multiple hours to do their winning entry. Both of them also get to advance onto district judging.

"We had around 28 art entries and 26 writing entries I believe," said Mrs. Rizo. She was able to convince the admin team to give enough

Singers make history

On Feb. 18-19, Arden Garcia represented our campus as a member of the 2017 California All-State Honor Choir. This is the highest honor any high school choir member can receive – placing Arden in the category of the top 250 (100 if you count boys only) singers statewide.

Arden's family traveled to San Jose, where he was tested one final time and then, under the guidance of a top-notch university conductor, spent two full days rehearsing for a final concert that took place on Saturday at Cathedral Basilica in downtown San Jose.

This is the fourth time in BHS history that the school has been represented at this level. "Being the fourth person in the school's history was pretty special. Getting to meet all those other people at the festival...it was exciting to see other's

In related news: The BHS Music Programs was proud to announce that on March 1 at the combined Band and Choir Concert, 18 students were inducted into the first class into the National Music Honor Society known as Tri-M. These students represent high standards academically, musically, and in their commitment to the community.

"To be inducted you had to audition with a non-pop song, meet the grade requirement which is a 2.5, have some sort of leadership skills and be part of a music program," said Melissa Flores. "By being inducted, it showed that all my hard work paid off."

The following students were inducted:

Gilbert Camacho
Geovany Chavez-Cisneros
Alison Colchado
Alejandro Contreras
Marcos Felix
Melissa Flores
Arden Garcia
Valerie Garcia
Esmeralda Gilman
Carolina Hidalgo
Jailene Jaime
Amy Mendoza
Yurie Mkhitarian

First semester award ceremony

On Feb. 15, 887 students were honored at the All-School Awards Night, first semester. Students were given awards for Principal's Honor Roll (having a 3.0 GPA or better), perfect attendance, or individual achievement in a subject.

The cheer squad was on hand to cheer students and family as they walked into the foyer of the auditorium and a photo backdrop of blue with gold streamers and balloons was added so students and families had a place to stop for a selfie.

A small slide show was projected as people took their seats, with quotes from students about how they have enjoyed BHS.

Here's a complete list of students celebrated, many receiving more than one award on this evening:

money so they could have good prizes. First place winners received a $50 movie gift card, second place received two movie tickets along with candies, and third place received two movie tickets. Mrs. Rizo put up all the entries around her classroom and the staff were able to go in and vote for the one that they liked.

“My essay was actually super last minute. I had stuff going on and I just didn’t have the motivation to enter this time around but I woke up at like 2 in the morning the day it was due and I typed it up and submitted it,” said Althea. “It took me 5 days to do my painting,” said Jocelyn. She entered mostly for fun but didn’t necessarily think she would win. “My inspiration was from everything that’s been going on right now and my parents are immigrants so it means a lot to me,” said Jocelyn.

The Power of Language

The way we view the world and how we view ourselves in relation to the world may affect the language that we speak. We see ourselves in other people’s eyes. It is the nature of the human race. We are a species of reflection hungry for it in every facet of our existence. A valiant man named Cesar Chavez stands up for the oppressed through his utilization of Mere language. His perseverance in striving for social justice inspires the mass that violence consists of hatred towards one’s nation and our language is the remaining light which brings optimism in ending the belligerence of society towards one another.

Words are powerful for it will leave scars we cannot see which are the hardest to heal and that makes it greater than violence. I will rather choke on the greatness of my language than to nibble on the mediocrity of the human violence. Chavez’s desires to move mountains of injustice leads the people to rise with dignity as he gives hope to the indigent and underrepresented by expanding the possibility for victory to all workers across the nation. He elevates the bar for equality through his mass mobilizing technique of creating marches, boycotting the grape industry, and doing hunger strikes which eventually becomes huge enough to call the attention to the government. His passion to assist the fallen becomes reflected through his non-violent protests which directly sends out the signal that the bloodless battle will not just change the lives of the common people, but will also impact future generations’ perception of society.

Adversity does not build character, it reveals it through the manner of one’s language and how gracefully they fight through their circumstances. Back when I lived in the Philippines, I did not know that I was living in a third-world country until I came here in the United States. It was never mentioned in my school how poor my country really is. I never questioned it because the community was so united and we treated our home land like it is paradise. In times of calamity, instead of competing for resources due to heavy storms and flash floods obliterating our entire town, Filipinos would check up on their neighborhoods to ask them what they need while saying the words, “po” and “opo” which are words the we state after every sentence we say to show respect to the elderly. The power of language changes our perception of the world and Chavez’s contributions to our society are remarkable for his ambitions we broad enough to include the aspirations and needs of others, for their sakes and for our own.

We can only be what we give ourselves the power to be. The victim can always become the victor if one chooses the dangerous liberty over the peaceful slavery. Chavez becomes the spokesperson for the oppressed because he was one himself too. His journey won monumental gains for farm workers, civil rights, political representation for racial minorities and environmental justice. Without Chavez having his voice heard, there will still be economic injustice, sexual, racial, and anti-immigrant discrimination.

We are drowning in information, but starving for knowledge. Violence has filled our nation and it does not benefit anybody, but at the center of nonviolence stands the principle of love. There is no path to peace because peace is the path.

-Althea Jelsea P. Bigay
