“When I got there I felt like if I was Julius Caesar going inside the building,” said Marcus Martin.

Israel Lopez added, “The place was pretty tight!”

Prom was held at Soka University of America in Aliso Viejo on April 15. The theme was “Kairos: Live in the moment.”

The word “Kairos” is Greek for a the perfect, delicate, crucial moment. “The atmosphere was like super energetic and fun and everybody was excited to go... It was just a really good vibe coming off everyone because of the excitement,” said Melissa Flores

A dinner buffet was included in the $110 ticket. The menu included oven roasted chicken with roasted garlic and sautéed wild mushrooms, Cajun blackened beef sirloin, and four cheese grilled fresh vegetable lasagna. Desserts included dark chocolate dipped strawberries, rocky road brownies and the famous chocolate fountain. “I tried little of everything; the chicken with roasted garlic and sautéed wild mushrooms was delicious,” said Lidben Ayala.

“The mash potatoes and chicken were my favorite; I had a big appetite,” said Angel Ramirez.

The prom committee decided to have both a jazz band and a DJ. “The DJ sucked! I couldn’t drop the junk in my trunk. My date was Ted Broadston and we were going back and forth from the DJ and Jazz band,” Alexandra Perez.

“It was such a fun night. The decorations were nice, it was very well put together, the place was very elegant and the food was so good, said Leslie Arana Gomez.

The prom wouldn’t be complete without a court. Junior Prince Issac Zuniga, Junior Princess Priscilla Medina, Senior Prince Noah Johnson, Senior Princess Dominique Lozano-Padilla, King Anthony Redondo, and Queen Brianna Tang enjoyed the slow court dance after the announcement.

“My stomach dropped when they announced my name,” said Issac (junior prince.)

Grant offers insights for prom about drinking and driving

I'm one of the few privileged that got to experience this. Now I'm aware of what happens when you go to jail and the effect that drunk driving has. It was an intense experience, especially watching the scene unfold in front of you," explained April Amajoyi about the Every 15 Minutes experience.

Juniors and seniors were lucky enough to have a two-day event that taught them the consequences of drinking and driving. Assistant principal Ms. Ruby Navarro, with help from several staff members and students, coordinated the event. "It wasn't something you 'sign up for,' you were selected. Picked based on the way teachers and faculty think your impact on the campus is. Kind of like the big voices of the school," said Iman Williams.

There were 23 kids selected to participate. "During the process I felt like it was another performance, but when it came down to the first day of being 'reaped' out of my classroom by the 'grim reaper' everything felt completely real. It was terrifying," she continued.

"We were hand picked from teachers to get our roles. It was sad going inside the morgue and seeing all those dead bodies and knowing your life could end at any time. My role in the program was being reaped with the other students," said Nayeli Sandoval.

Alejandro Mariscal said "We had auditions for the certain parts with the accident. Some acts were pretty realistic for example, Cynthia she really got into it and she broke down crying and was screaming inside the classroom."

For many of the students, it was a difficult role to play and the hardest part was watching their parents during the mock funeral.

"At the end of the ceremony, I felt really emotional. Even though the situation wasn't real, I felt bad for making my mother go through that," Miguel Parga confesses.

"It's crucial to waste the time you have here. Tell the people you love, you love them. And do not drink and drive, ever, obviously," said Noah Johnson.

It does take a village to raise kids, and there were many people and organizations needed to bring together this two day project together. Ms. Ruby Navarro would like to thank the following community supporters with our Every 15 Minutes event:

San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department, Fontana Sheriff Station, California Highway Patrol San Bernardino, San Bernardino County Friday Night Live, San Bernardino County Fire Department, San Bernardino Coroner's Office, American Medical Response (AMR), Central Detention Center, Loma Linda University Medical Center, KVCR/FNX, Nickelodeon Pizza, Shakey's Pizza, Mi Cocina Restaurant, Hampton INN Suites, Mercy Air, Stater Bros., GT Imprints, Colton Joint Unified School District Print Shop, Pepe's Towing, Green Acres Mortuary, and Bloomington 1 Florist.

Sergio Zaldivar said "It was pretty scary thinking about death and knowing how your friends are going to be missing you. Thinking about death and life and how it could just easily be done in one moment by drinking alcohol. It's crazy how you can lose everyone just because you want to be fun for a couple of minutes and then die. Who is going to think of you when you are dead? So my experience is life changing."

State of honor

Juniors selected to represent BHS

It's a state of mind...a political state of mind. Alexia Camacho and Mohammad Awad were both selected for Girls and Boys State, a type of summer camp where students from all over California learn about government and politics...hands on.

"We're going to compete for jobs like Congress, Senate... stuff like that. Actually run a campaign. I want to be a lawyer so since this program was about politics I wanted to learn more about what I'm going to get myself into in the future," said Mohammad Awad.

Both winners were interviewed by people from American Legion. They interviewed the top five junior boys and top five junior girls, as nominated by teachers and counselors.

"When I won Girl's State it was very surprising for me because I did not expect to win. When I walked into that interview room, it was scary because I didn't know any of the ladies who were interviewing me, but when I walked out of the interview I felt pretty confident. Once they finished interviewing each of the girls they had told me I had won," said Alexia Camacho.

The two students get to spend a week at a college. Alexia Camacho will be going to the Claremont McKenna College and Mohammad Awad will be going to Cal State Sacramento. All expenses will be paid by the American Legion.

Sports individual winners

Sports are both a team and individual competition and several students were given individual recognition this month.

Marissa Gonzalez won the Citrus Belt Area Athletic Directors Association female Athlete of the Year Award. "I received the Athlete of the Year award, which is an honor to receive. My goals since freshman year was to receive a full scholarship to play the sport that I love and to receive this award my senior year. I received this award because I've played multiple sports though out my high school experience, I've played varsity volleyball, soccer and, track and field."

Gerardo Vazquez won Citrus Belt Area Athletic Directors Association male Athlete of the Year Award. "I feel the hard work from all four

Just Duck-worthy

It was announced last week that Mr. Ryan Duckworth was elected to the Presidency of the California Music Educators Association for the South-eastern Section.

"It is gratifying to have my efforts to encourage music education locally, be recognized by my colleagues in the region. For the next two years I will be advocating for, coordinating with, and providing professional development opportunities to music teachers at all levels across San Bern-

nardino, Riverside, Inyo, Mono, and Orange Counties," said

Mr. Duckworth.

It is hoped with this honor that BHS will be able to host some state level choir events, showcasing the talent of the school. "My duties will include organizing music festivals for choirs, bands, and orchestras throughout the area and putting together conferences to help other choir teachers."

Day by Day

It was a clean sweep for the juniors in the poetry division of the district's annual Pencil, Pen, and Brush competition, announced on April 26. Competition included GT, Colton, and Slover.

Overall, BHS had 40 winners in various art, photography and writing categories. "I was really surprised, I've never really written a poem before but Ms. (Leticia) Desrochers made me do it for a grade. She really taught us well and brought out my inner poet. I'm glad I did my homework. I'm proud of myself," said first place winner Samantha Alvarez.

Childhood is happiness,
 Childhood is waking up with no worries.
 Childhood isn't wondering if you will eat today,
 Childhood isn't wondering if you will have a place to live.
 Childhood shouldn't have worries,
 Childhood should have been slurpin' on Mcflurrys.

But that wasn't my childhood.
 My childhood consisted of bills, bills, bills.
 Working as early as seven for a dollar a day,
 Had to save up day by day
 3 g's it was only enough for the coyote fees
 1 day, 2 days, 3 days, almost falling to my knees.
 Hoping to survive hoping to stay alive.

Six Years Old
 I remember packing my bags,
 FULL of excitement.
 I remember sitting by the window watching the cars drive by.
 I remember thinking
 "Today will be a great day."
 I remember seeing the beautiful blue birds play in the puddle.
 I remember seeing the sun
 come out from behind the clouds.
 I remember telling grandma,
 "Daddy said he's taking me to the park."
 I remember grandma smiling and handing me a homemade cookie.
 I remember that happy feeling of seeing my dad again.
 I remember
 hearing the house phone ring.
 I remember seeing the saddened look on my grandmother's face.
 "He's not coming."
 I remember how that happy little girl felt like someone dropped the world on her.
 I remember seeing the birds fly away,
 as if a hunter was after them.
 I remember seeing the sun
 suddenly being eaten by the clouds.
 I remember the sky
 beginning to cry with me.
 I remember seeing the road
 suddenly empty.
 I remember the broken look my grandma and I exchanged.
 I remember never going to the park that day.

An Anxious Feeling: The Time is eight-forty

The time is eight-forty,
 I am twenty minutes early.
 In the front I see Ines,
 and immediately feel stress.
 I see Patty in the office,
 they're my least favorite bosses.
 Kevin's on front counter,
 he's off in an hour.
 This means I'm on fries,
 did I eat butterflies?
 I arrive in the breakroom,
 my shift will start soon.
 I worry and I pray,
 that it won't get busy this day.
 Ten minutes fly by,
 it's eight-fifty nine.
 I go and clock in,
 now my day begins.

Grandpa

I remember feeling lost and alone
 No one to turn to Nowhere to go
 Then my grandpa moved in.

I had someone to talk to Somewhere to go
 Felt for once like a true home
 Throughout all the yelling, I knew I wasn't alone
 He gave me hope
 He gave me pride
 Like an angel who just earned her wings, ready to fly.

He would teach me new things
 Like how to build fences
 And the tools to do it
 He made me laugh,
 Made me cry,
 But most importantly,
 He influenced me
 To fly.

Then one day it seemed to change
 He had a heart attack
 It seemed kinda strange
 But he needed surgery to be back.

I thought I was going to lose him
 Life wouldn't be the same if I did
 What would I do without him
 He was my everything since I was just a kid.

Surgery after surgery
 Time after time but...
 Finally
 He was himself again
 I could learn more things
 Have more laughs
 And live better knowing he was alright
 He is more than a grandpa to me, he is my best friend.

ANIMAL MAGNETISM

Kaleigh Lambaren, Sabrina Garcia, Oralia Rodriguez

"My favorite animal would be a bear and not because our mascot is a bruin bear, but because they are very graceful. I like to be outdoors and at Yosemite the national park. I usually bears and it's quite relaxing because they have a lot of strength and grace. Would I ever be a bear? No, because I like the way I am as a human and wise. I think my spirit animal is probably a horse because when you think about it they're hard working and serve other people."

_Mr. Chris Herlihy

"My favorite animal would probably be an elephant or dolphin. I think because they're endangered species and they're adorable. Would I ever become either of these? Yes! Because they're really smart and very majestic and I could stomp on enemies. My spirit animal would probably be a cheetah because it could run fast and hunt down it's prey."

_Destiny Cruz (10)

"An elephant because not only are they very smart and remember just about everything and I find it very stunning on how they look. I would never become an elephant because being human is the most amazing thing and you mostly get a choice on if you die or not, for the most part. My spirit animal would be a seal because they have a nice life. They relax on the beach and soak up the sun. I'd say I relate to a horse the most because they're strong and powerful."

_ Mr. Bangle

"My favorite animal would have to be a dog because growing up I was the youngest of my family. He-my dog-was my very close friend growing up. Actually, I would become a dog because the give unconditional love and support their masters. My spirit animal would be a tiger or lion because I could persevere at work. I relate to dogs mainly because of their loyalty to their master and because I give my loyalty and support to the school."

_Mr. Sandy Torres

"Sloth, because sloths are cool and lazy. I would love to be a sloth because I'd get to lie around and be lazy! I mean, name an animal that preys on a sloth? None of them. That's why they're awesome."

_John Moran

_Oralia Rodriguez

"Oh man, a zebra because of their unique colors. No, I wouldn't have hands and I'm safe being a human. I think a bird because I like high altitudes."

_Adrian Perez

"My favorite animal would be a turtle because the they're cute. I'm fast so I would say cheetah. My spirit animal is a cheetah and I would definitely become one if I could because they don't die too easily."

_Ashley Gonzalez

"Wolf because there wise and they usually alone and they seem majestic and natural to me. I would just because to see how it would feel. I think its a wolf. I probably relate to a wolf a lot because I'm usually alone in a corner not just any wolf a lone wolf."

_Jose Martinez

"My favorite animal is a tiger. I think they're ferocious and don't let anything stand in there way. Honestly, I'd say tigers are my spirit animal because I'd like to think I can relate to them. I'm strong and you have to think twice if you think I would allow anyone or anything stand in my way."

_Maite Estrella

" My favorite animal is a mantis (look it up), it's awesome because no one knows what it is. I relate to a mantis shrimp because they're short and fun. Overall, I'd say I'd relate most to a black bear because they're small, hairy and lazy. "

_Nathan Fernandez

"My favorite animal is a tiger because I see it as it being the leader of all cat like animals. For example a cat, Jaguar or puma. If I could be this animal I would because they show power and pride never sadness like me. I think I would relate to an animal other than a tiger which is a wolf only because they belong to the wild. My spirit animal would be Taylor Swift's cat, Meredith, because they are so relatable."

Final ACTS

ACTS students participate in final competition of the year

Jeannea Taylor

"We fall we stand we succeed together." ACTS (Attitude Choices Teamwork Success) class 6 proudly shouts their motto as they get ready to take on three different teams for competition. Competition was held at BHS on April 29 at 10:00 am.

There were four teams of ACTS that participated along with the San Bernardino Sheriff Explorers, FLIP(-Fontana Leadership Intervention Program), and the Fontana Police Explorers.

Competition is so students can demonstrate their physical strength. These kids can take it they have been preparing for months on upper and lower body strength to give them the power and strength to be successful in this competition.

Re-tired: Five groups of four participate in the tire carry (right). Ten members participated in the "tug-a-swat" tank. Fontana Explores took first place in 1st place, ACTS came in second.

FEATURES

In Loving Memory

Former long-time BHS teacher, Dawn Molumphy, passed away on Jan. 26, 2017 at the age of 73.

Ms. Molumphy was born in Hartford, CT on Feb. 5, 1943 to Lillian (Galinsky) and Robert "Red" Molumphy. She graduated from Manchester High School in Connecticut and then attended Intermont College. After earning a degree from Southern Connecticut State College, Dawn went on to teach physical education at Norwich (CT) Free Academy until the lure of the west drew her and a childhood friend to California. She earned a Master of Arts degree from Pepperdine University.

Ms. Molumphy taught physical education and English at BHS from 1967 to 2003. She generously supported a variety of programs at BHS, including athletics, drama, journalism, and music. The Publications program proudly dedicated their computer center after her in 2003 when she retired.

She was active in the teachers' association, serving on bargaining teams and as president of the Association of Colton Educators. She chaired the English department, coached Mock Trial teams, and announced at football games for many years. Ms. Molumphy loved sports (especially baseball and the Boston Red Sox), reading, and travel.

A scholarship has been established at Bloomington High School to honor her life and work. Contributions may be sent to Bloomington High School, 10750 Laurel Avenue, Bloomington, CA 92316, (care of the Dawn Molumphy Memorial Scholarship).

Fun and games at follies

The Faculty Follies, held on May 4, is a type of talent show for our teachers. Some are serious about their talent, others are show-offs. Mr. Juan Aguirre took first place was very serious. He said (jokingly), "I am the best and I look forward to next to see if anyone will beat me." Aguirre sang the song Amargo Adios in Spanish.

Other acts included an act by Ms. Misty Wright and Ms. Cheryl Henderson who lip sync'd the song Ain't No Hollaback Girl. Mr. John Zupanic, Mr. Roger Burgett (district groundman) and Nicole Araiza (former Colton High alumnus) played guitar and sang, Ms. Tricia Pahner played the piano, Mr. David Rojas sang and played the guitar and Mr. Michael Gill let his long hair and guitar fingers fly. Mr. Fabian Carballo and Mr. Hunt did several "impersonations" including eating a banana and spitting it out, impersonating a "zit."

Judge Iman Williams said, "Wright's performance had to be the most entertaining performance."
